“ your opinion on the last 30 years of the Council of Europe's Cultural Routes Program; a goal for the future”

The Cultural routes program is, above all, a model of reference in the field of cultural cooperation.

An example of rigorous, scientific work with multiplicity and diversity of actors and perspectives.

Is a lighthouse full of values and principles on peaceful coexistence that are today more important than ever.

But also is a model of shared work and goals that speaks of the history, the memory but also of life in its multiples scenarios: political, social, economic, cultural, diplomatic....

The routes are a trip to the past, an account of the present and a call for values of solidarity, citizenship, and stronger conscience of environmental issues for a sustainable future.

This program is a gemstone that all we need to take care and share its rich experience of 30 years of life with the rest of the world.
